

Do warehouses and storage facilities for a certified operation have to be separately certified?

Not necessarily. But if they are not uniquely certified, the warehouse or storage facility must be included in the certified operation's organic systems plan so that the certifying agent is aware of where the product is being stored and can verify compliance with applicable regulations—for example, prevention of commingling and contact with prohibited substances, as outlined in Section 205.272.

e-CFR